Dreams Have Come True!

A Real Apparel Service Will Be Available Soon for Stout Women

It seems too good to be true that there will be available, within the next few days, a new store devoted exclusively to apparel requirements for stout figures. Several years ago the idea was conceived that there were enough fully developed women in the United States to justify the expense necessary in securing designs, not just extra size, but made especially for stout figures with proper proportions for shoulders, the upper arm and other normal proportions.

Today that dream has been realized. The wonderful Sveltine System of Designing, created several years ago, has been developed and is a success. In fact, fully developed figures are fit as accurately through this system of designing, as regular designs provide for those of more slender proportions.

This New Store Will Provide a Complete Service of

Smart Apparel for Stout Women

THE garments that will be carried in stock have been produced in factories devoted exclusively to the manufacturing of stout apparel. You will be delighted with the seemingly impossible results that have been secured through the Sveltine System of Designing.

AMERICAN adaptation of the latest Parisian models have been made with splendid results. Think of it—full-formed women can now eliminate the unsuccessful experiments with dressmakers and secure, ready for instant use, apparel with stunning designing that creates a commanding figure.

This New Store Will Open Monday, July 18th

The completion of new fixtures and the erection of a balcony and other improvements delayed the opening of this shop. Vast quantities of garments have been received and are now ready for immediate use. The season has been shortened for these unavoidable reasons, so you will have the advantage of

"PIRATES OF PENZANCE" TO BE SUNG THIS WEEK

Sixth Week of Opera Opens Tonight With Gilbert and Sullivan Production.

The sixth week of the Municipal Opera will begin tonight, with the Gilbert and Sullivan "Pirates of Penzance" as the bill.

This work has not been sung heretofore on the Municipal Theater stage, but it is familiar to the singers beyond anything which they have sung thus far this summer, and it is also familiar to the public, ranking in this respect with "The Mikado," by the same authors, and with "The Bohemian Girl," "Martha" and "Chimes of Normandy," the last named of which is to be the Municipal opera bill next week.

Both J. Humbird Duffy, tenor of the opera company, and Frank Moulton, principal comedian, have appeared in the last two seasons, in stage presentations of the "Pirates." Both were in the roles which they will have tonight, Duffy as Frederic, pirate apprentice and slave to duty, and Moulton as Major-General Stanley.

The other members of the cast are also familiar with the score of the "Pirates," the allotment of parts being: Pirate king, Charles Gallagher; pirate lieutenant, James Stevens; sergeant of police, Harry Hermisen; piratical maid of all work, Mildred Rogers, and the four daughters of Major-General Stanley, Rhoda Nickells, Ann Bussert, Cora Alt and Jean Wiltrout, the two last named being members of the opera company chorus.

Paul Meyer, of the Theatre Magazine, published in New York, saw last night's dress rehearsal of "Pirates of Penzance," and will be at tonight's performance.

Beaten When He Seeks Job.

John C. Cameron, 25 years old, who says he came here a few days ago from West Virginia seeking employment, was taken to the city hospital last night suffering from a fractured nose and scalp wounds suffered, he said, when he was assaulted by two men on the levee near the Free Bridge. "You got a lot of nerve to come here and try and get a job," he said one of the men told him and struck him. The other knocked him down and both kicked him, he said.

Total	$3310.00

Yesterday a check for $1615.33 was received from the Young Men's Hebrew Association as the net proceeds to date of the Midsummer Evening Frolic which their members presented Saturday evening at the Liberty Theater for the benefit of the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund. At the time the check was written a similar amount was in the fund, so the Y. M. H. A. achieved its goal, which was to double whatever sum the fund contained at the time the entertainment was given.

With this generous assistance, which represents weeks of rehearsals through hot evenings, the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund totals $3310, leaving $5190 still to be raised this season to meet the goal of $8500.

Among those who should receive credit in connection with the acknowledgement of the Y. M. H. A. contribution is the La Salle Candy Company, which in addition to donating a good-sized amount of cash, furnished free of charge all the ice cream that the clubs in charge of the refreshment stands could sell.

A show and lemonade stand at 4700 Goethe avenue netted $8.50 for the milk and ice fund. The show had charge of it were: Margaret and Catherine Wiesehan, Lucile Gruber, Mildred Kraus, Adele and Irma Schaller and Viola Diefenbacher.

Evelyn and Florence Friedman of 4380 West Pine boulevard conducted a lemonade stand in front of their home last week and earned $5.09 for the fund.

John Williams of 3928 Cleveland avenue and Tom McDonough of 2922 Cleveland avenue sent $1.50 for the babies, and $2 was received from J. A. Whittington of 4481 St. Louis avenue.

The stocks included 730 shares of the More-Jones Brass and Metal Co., of which he was founder, valued at $73,000, and 269 shares of the More Automobile Co., which he founded and of which he was president when he died, valued at $20,900. His goods and chattels were valued at $7781. His real estate included the home-stand, Morehaven, 109 acres in Jefferson County, and a lot at Hodiadmont and Clemens avenues.

FUNERAL OF RIVER VICTIM

The funeral of Mrs. Paul G. Palmer of Clayton, who was drowned Saturday when bathing in the Gasconade River at Gascondy, 100 miles west of St. Louis, was held this afternoon from an undertaker's at 3821 Olive street, with burial in Bellefontaine Cemetery. The Rev. George E. Norton of St. Michael and All Angels' Episcopal Church officiated.

Palmer and a searching party recovered Mrs. Palmer's body yesterday at a point eight miles below the Gascondy Club, where she went into the water. She and her children, Katherine, 14, and Walter, 11, were spending a vacation at the club.

REMAINDER OF $100,000 SOUGHT

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 12.—Miss Elida Piza, Costa Rican beauty, whose romantic marriage to Herbert P. Crane of Chicago ended in the divorce courts last fall, has started proceedings to collect the remaining $70,000 of a $100,000 cash settlement awarded to her.

Crane accused Miss Piza of stripping his country home, alleging that weighing 2000 pounds, a hot stove she took everything but a stone chair and an iron cannon. Miss Piza's action is a cross bill in which she says to the Court and asks for the rest of Crane's allegations show disrespect the $100,000 she says is due.

75TH KROGER STORE HOLDUP IS REPORTED

Two Youths Get $25 From Vandeventer Ave. Branch—Dog Gives Burglar Alarm.

The seventy-fifth Kroger store holdup since August, 1919, was reported yesterday afternoon by Russell E. Sheets of 3853 Flad avenue, manager of the Kroger Grocery and Baking Co.'s branch at 1247 South Vandeventer avenue.

Sheets was alone in the store when two men entered at 2:45 p. m. One pointed a revolver at him, commanded him to go into a back room and then kept him covered while the other robber took $25 from the cash register. The robbers escaped.

Woman, Aroused by Dog, Collides With Burglar in Dark.

Mrs. Bessie Feldmann, 4635 Alameda avenue, awakened by the barking of her watchdog at 1:20 o'clock this morning, got out of bed and collided with a burglar in the dark. As she switched on a light, she saw the burglar run out through the front door, which he had left open, and hop into a waiting automobile, in which a second man was seated. The burglar had unlocked the front door with a skeleton key. Nothing was taken.

The disappearance of $243.90 from a safe in the office of the Walter Jones Real Estate Co., 618 Chestnut street, was reported yesterday afternoon by George Schumacher, bookkeeper, who said he placed the money in the safe Saturday afternoon and locked the safe. At noon yesterday, when he unlocked the safe, he found that the cash compartment had been rifled of the money. Two checks were still in the box. The safe evidently had been opened by someone familiar with the combination.

Dental Offices Robbed of Gold.

Burglars in the afternoon ransacked the dental offices of Frank J. Jaeger and Oscar Hauemuehler in the Grand-Florian Building, 2148 East Grand avenue, and stole dental gold valued at $190 from each office. The office of the International Heating Co., 4552 North Broadway, was looted by burglars at night, and $52 in one-cent postage stamps, $52 in two-cent stamps, $8 in revenue stamps and a gold pencil were stolen from one of the desks.

Safe robbers evidently were frightened away from the feed store of John H. Liermann, 5219 Gravois avenue, at night. When the place was opened by an employee this morning the combination handle on the safe was found to have been battered, and a sledge hammer was lying on the floor nearby. The safe had not been opened.

Henry Grandell of 1721 Franklin avenue told the police that while he was having a nap in a back room of his home in the afternoon, someone entered the front room and carried off a red leather rocking chair valued at $25.

Jacob Levy, stopping at the Stratford Hotel, told the police that a stranger who he met in the corridor of the hotel yesterday afternoon offered to sell him two silk shirts for $15. He gave the man the money and the latter said he would get the shirts, but failed to return.

Messenger Disappears With $10. F. J. Foster, florist at 215 North Seventh street, engaged a messenger boy yesterday morning. At noon he gave the boy a $10 bill and told him to get the change. The boy disappeared.

Walter Reed of 410 Victor street took a beggar into his home Sunday night, gave him food and permitted him to sleep in the basement. Shortly after the man left yesterday morning Reed missed a bicycle which he valued at $25.

A man and woman purchased an electric iron for $6.35 yesterday at the hardware store of Theodore Wurtz, 2645 Gravois avenue, and the man tendered a check signed "Polar Wave Ice and Fuel Co." for $18.15. Wurtz made the change and later discovered that the check was worthless.

MARINES TO AID AT BENEFIT

Capt. G. P. Jackson Jr. Will Turn Out Men for Parade July 27. Capt. Gilbert D. Jackson Jr., in charge of the Marine Corps recruiting station at St. Louis, has placed his command at the disposal of the committee of the charity baseball game to be held July 27 at Sportsman's Park for the benefit of the Tuberculosis Society of St. Louis. He will turn out his men for all the street parades, as well as the other events.

The first of two baseball games scheduled for July 27 will be between the army and the navy. The other game will be a professional affair, with the Cardinals playing Philadelphia.

The Great Lakes Naval Training Station, which is sending the navy team for the contest, is holding an elimination contest among its 10 baseball teams to select the one to play in St. Louis. Jefferson Barracks will send the army team.

The same in all weathers

Stormy days may keep some girls at home, but not one with a fresh, smooth skin which rain and wind only make the prettier.

Such a natural complexion is beautiful at all times, by flattering evening light or noonday glare. It is the greatest charm a woman can possess and the one charm every woman can achieve.

How to beautify your skin

Women who think that bleaches, lotions and mysterious applications will give them a beautiful complexion are sadly in the wrong. These are more apt to increase bad conditions.

They clog the tiny pores and keep the minute cells from doing their important work. And it is the resulting sluggishness, their dangerous inactivity, which makes skins dull and sallow and produce blackheads and ugly blemishes.

Wake your skin up, put the cells and glands to work and revive the sluggish circulation. Wash cold creams, cosmetics and dirt away with simple soap and water and give nature a chance to do its work.

Be careful what soap you choose

In beginning this cosmetic cleansing the choice of soap is most important. You mustn't use a harsh soap, drying and irritating, but one that is mild and balmy.

Volume and efficiency produce 25-cent quality for 10c

In the mild, soothing, creamy lather of Palmolive you find an ideal cleanser. It is the facial soap which satisfies millions of exacting users.

It is lotion-like in its action. It soothes while it cleanses. It is a real complexion beautifier.

Pay only 10 cents

The luxury of Palmolive is a gift of modern science which ancient beauties never enjoyed. Their luxurious oils are blended in a wonderful combination which produces the finest facial soap the world has ever known.

Science while perfecting quality, has also reduced the price, with the help of millions of users who keep the Palmolive factories working night and day.

The great demand also allows economy in the purchase of the costly ingredients in vast volume. Result, the practical 10-cent price which puts Palmolive within the reach of all.

WAR HERO WHO AIDED 'LOST BATTALION' DIES

Jack Munson Succumbs to Tuberculosis in Bellevue Hospital—Body in Morgue.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, July 12.—The body of Jack Munson, a runner, who passed through the German lines in the Argonne forest on Oct. 6, 1918, and carried a message which helped to save the "Lost Battalion," lay last night on a slab in the city morgue. Attached to it was this label:

"John Munson, 31 years old, boatman. Died July 9, in Bellevue Hospital, of tuberculosis."

Less than three years ago, Maj. Charles W. Whittlesey, returned from France, was telling how his command, the Third Battalion of the 307th Infantry, Seventy-seventh Division, was surrounded for five days until their relief came up. "We used to send out runners twice a day regularly to see if they could get through to headquarters," he said. "But they were all killed or wounded, and after several days of that sort of thing I asked another boy if he would take a chance."

"Why, sure," he replied. That boy was Jack Munson. This is how Munson's feat was told in the official citation given Munson when Marshal Petain, commander of the French armies, pinned the Medaille Militaire on his breast:

"To obtain ammunition and rations, Private Munson, with another private and an officer, ventured to establish communication between his battalion and regimental headquarters. They were attacked by a small party of Germans, and one of them was killed. They succeeded in reaching cover, and remained there until nightfall, when they crawled by error into a German camp, and lay there for three hours before they were discovered. Private Munson then deliberately drew the fire of the Germans to himself in an effort to save the officer, and he succeeded the next morning in reaching the American lines and destination with the message entrusted to him."

Beside the medaille militaire, which only four American doughboys won, Munson received the Croix de Guerre with palm, and from Gen. Pershing the Distinguished Service cross.

After his return and discharge from service, Munson returned to his old job as a stevedore and boatman on the East Side water front. But the deadly germ of the white plague was undermining his health, and he found it difficult to find steady employment.

He moved into a cheap lodging house in Park Row. All his possessions were pawned or sold except one suit of clothes, and the framed citations in French and English that hung on the wall of his room. On June 14 he had just strength to drag himself to the gates of Bellevue Hospital. He was put in the ward for tubercular patients, and he never told the nurses of his record in the war.

Last Friday he died. There were none of his friends or buddies at his bedside. He had told the hospital attendants to notify Mrs. Peter Peterson of 197 South street, with whom he had once lodged, and they sent his medals to her. His body was taken to the morgue, for there was no one to claim it.

Yesterday some of Munson's friends on the docks heard of his death. They telephoned Capt. Grover C. Graham, now Adjutant of the army post on Governor's Island, once an officer of the 307th. He telephoned to the morgue last night and asked that nothing be done with Munson's body until he could arrange a military funeral with proper burial in the National Cemetery at Arlington, D. C.

And so Jack Munson, who saved a battalion, will not be buried in the potter's field.

Friction—the Pickpocket of Industry

If the loss to industry through unnecessary friction could be entirely eliminated, it would mean a saving of sufficient money to pay off the combined state debt of Illinois, Indiana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas in a single year.

—(Moody's Manual)

It would represent twice the value of all the vessels produced in the United States in a normal year, and would be greater in value than the annual rye, barley, or rice crop.

—(Statistical Abstract of U. S.)

The value of power lost to industry through friction has been estimated to reach the staggering total of $185,000,000 annually.

—(Industrial Oil Engineering)

Realizing that friction is an undesirable partner of industry, and feeling its obligation as the leader among manufacturers of lubricants, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has for years maintained a staff of lubricating engineers and lubricating chemists, whose business it has been to consult with industrial engineers to solve for them their individual lubricating problems as they are presented.

The services of these men are given without charge, and the saving effected has been great.

When it is realized that every machine presents a friction problem, and that every industry, from cotton goods to corn flakes is dependent on proper lubrication for turning out its product efficiently, one function of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) becomes more apparent.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" only—Say "California"

When your child is pale, listless, feverish, full of cold, and doesn't eat, sleep, or act naturally, don't wait; the little stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. Give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food, and sour bile gently pass and you have a well, playful child again. Mothers can rest easy after giving this harm-

Children love its delicious "fruity" taste. Full directions for babies and Mother, you must say "California."

If you don't say "California" you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Thousands of thin, nervous, run-down folks are now turning to the new and yeast-vitamins called Vitamon. This contains a proper dose of the true yeast-vitamines and other health-giving elements which your body needs to make firm tissue, strong nerves, rich blood and a keen, active brain. It will not cause gas or upset the stomach, but on the contrary is a great aid to digestion and in overcoming chronic constipation.

Boils or skin eruptions seem to vanish like magic under this healthful, purifying influence, leaving the skin fresh, clear and beautiful. So remarkable are the benefits from these highly concentrated Vitamon tablets that entire satisfaction is absolutely guaranteed or the small amount you pay for the trial will be promptly refunded. Be sure to remember the name VITAMON—there is nothing else like it. At all good drug-

From the makers of U.S. Royal Cords to the users of Fabric Tires

IN all of modern merchandising the biggest conundrum is the fabric tire situation.

Around 70% of all car owners use fabric tires.

Their instinct for quality is as strong and insistent as any one else's.

Why, then, are they offered such hodge-podge stocks of "discount tires," "odd lots," "seconds,"
"retreads" and other so-called bargains of uncertain origin?

Sooner or later the public always seeks out quality. As a matter of self-protection—if for no other reason. The out-and-out opinion in favor of U.S. Fabric
Tires has spread more this year than it ever did.

People have gotten very close to the U. S. policy. Felt it. Benefited by it. And passed the word along.

It's a policy settled to one standard for all U. S. Tires. Whether fabrics or cords. Small sizes or large.

Giving to the fabric tire user fresh live tires. Being made now. Being shipped now.

All the original U. S. vitality and service comes through when you buy a U. S. Fabric Tire.

"Usco," "Chain," "Nobby."
Three different treads.

Built by the same brains, the same policy, the same quality ideals that have made U. S.
Royal Cords the standard measure of tire worth.

FOREIGN SHIPS RISK LOSS OF LIQUOR INSIDE 3-MILE ZONE

Customs Collectors Instructed to Seize Such Cargo and Arrest Officers of Vessel.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Under instructions wired to all customs collectors by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Mowle and given out yesterday by George W. Ashworth, chief of the division of customs, foreign ships carrying consignments of liquor cannot come within three miles of any American port without risking seizure of the liquor and arrest of the ship's officers.

This regulation is in strict accordance with the recent ruling of Attorney-General Daugherty upholding the opinion of his predecessor. Ashworth had asked the Attorney-General if the opinion of June 18 repealed the former Department of Justice's ruling which permitted vessels to seal bars and enter the United States.

Merchant vessels which customarily serve wine as a ration were also allowed to continue that practice even within the three-mile limit. The instructions of the Treasury Department followed this request. They mean, it was said, that a ship carrying intoxicating liquors from Halifax to Havana would not even be permitted to touch United States waters or land.

It is also said a prohibition officer would be upheld if he challenged a foreign ship arriving in an American port with stocks of liquor for its passengers and crew, even though the bar was sealed.

Several of the passenger-carrying steamship companies will test the law as now interpreted in the courts. The Cunard Line is believed to be preparing for an early decision by denying the Government agents and bringing in a full supply of liquor.

DELEGATION BEGINS TOUR OF ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY

Sir Robert Borden Welcoming Americans, Praising Spirit of Good Will.

By the Associated Press
NIAGARA ON THE LAKE, Ont., July 12.—The spirit of co-operation and good will between the United States and Canada, and fruits of that spirit were described yesterday by Sir Robert L. Borden, former Prime Minister of Canada, as one of the greatest lessons the world has ever had. Sir Robert was formally welcoming to Canada at Port Weller, the council of states of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association, at the beginning of its tour of inspection of the proposed St. Lawrence deep waterway. Response was made by Senators Townsend, Michigan; Ransdell, Louisiana; Governors Lake of Connecticut and Allen of Kansas.

Inspection of the old and new land canals, and group discussions of engineering phases, as well as potentialities of the new canal as a link in an all-water route from the Atlantic to the Great Lakes, occupied the party yesterday.

At Thorold, Ont., en route to Port Weller, wreaths were laid upon graves of American soldiers of the war of 1812 by a delegation of Daughters of the Empire. The wreaths were accepted by Gov. Mc-Masters of South Dakota, who expressed hope that a perpetual monument in the form of the proposed St.

Lawrence waterway, constructed by the people of both countries, would follow the stone marker placed over the graves of Canadians.

RESIGNATIONS IN JULY EXPECTED TO TOTAL 75,000

Discharged Under Reduction Order Get $50 Bonus and Fare Home.

The Associated Press, WASHINGTON, July 12.—Estimates from reports of resignations from the enlisted personnel of the army during the first 10 days of the month according to some officers, will show the present rate the number leaving the service may run as high as 10,000 for this month.

The discharges are being granted by the Secretary Weeks' order providing for reduction of the army to 100,000 by Oct. 1.

Under the order the men receive a bonus of $50 and travel pay either to their homes or places of enlistment. The average sum paid for each resignation, it is said, is about $100.

Many officers said the men influenced by the idea of getting this money would apply for re-enlistment after they had spent their bonus.

EDWARDS 'IN HARNESS' AGAIN IN NEW BANK

President of National City Institution Has Been With Banks in St. Louis Since 1875.

When friends, attending the opening today of the new National City Bank of St. Louis on Seventh street, between Olive and Locust streets, congratulated the president, Ben F. Edwards of 10 Kingsbury place, he smilingly remarked to many: "I'm glad to be back in harness."

It was recalled that he had made a similar remark on former occasions. In 1915, when he became president of the Central National Bank, and in 1928, when he became president of the National Bank of Commerce, Edwards has been in and out of the banking business five times since he began his financial career in 1875.

When he resigned the presidency of the National Bank of Commerce, April 24, 1932, the directors gave him a bonus of $50,000 in consideration of his agreement to remain out of the banking business in St. Louis for one year.

"Back at Same Spot"

"And here I am back at the same spot I occupied in 1915," said Edwards today. "The old Central National Bank occupied these quarters before removal to the Third National Bank Building, which is the present home of the Liberty-National Bank. It will be my aim to build up the National City Bank's business and deposits. We have an excellent location, and shall give the best service we know how to our patrons. I feel delighted with the chances here for useful service. We plan to do a regular commercial banking business."

The capital, surplus and profits of the new bank are given as $1,300,000. The vice presidents are: E. A. Schmidt, J. J. Dimmitt, S. B. Jeffries, J. F. Mackey and Edward Mays. W. M. Stone is cashier and J. L. Crain, assistant cashier.

Plans to Revive Inter-City Park Athletic Contests

Invitations Sent to Other Cities to Compete at Golf, Tennis and Baseball.

In an effort to revive interest in intercity municipal athletic competition, the authorities of the St. Louis Municipal Athletic Association sent invitations to several other cities which they hope will result in a busy season for St. Louis' park facilities. The invitations guarantee an expense to visiting teams while St. Louis, formerly entertainment only, was provided.

Rodowe Abeken, director of park recreation, has announced that he expects golf, tennis and baseball teams from Omaha, Memphis and some other city to compete with the local champions in each of the three branches of sport.

There has been a suggestion to hold the three competitions during the same week. This plan, of course, would cut down the entertaining costs and also facilitate the handling of the events. However, some objection has been made that it would cut down the revenue and also prevent a number of people from seeing all of the competitions.

St. Louis now holds the golf and tennis trophies for intercity play, and has been in possession ever since they were put into competition in 1916, with the exception of one season. That was when Chicagoans defeated the local golfers. Last season many invitations were sent out, but Springfield (Mo.) golfers were the only ones to accept. They called here and were defeated in a two-day play.

The effort to hold a national municipal tennis tournament may receive some assistance from the committee which recently was selected by the United States Lawn Tennis Association to work on park tennis. The committee has yet to hold its first meeting.

The proposed intercity golf, tennis and baseball competition forms only a part of the large municipal athletic program planned for this summer. FIGHT FILMS IN PARIS; EXHIBITORS HANG BACK, PUBLIC NOT INTERESTED

(Copyright, 1921.)

PARIS, July 12.—Movies of the Dempsey-Carpentier battle, in which Dempsey successfully defended his title of world's heavyweight champion in Jersey City on July 2, arrived here today, but there is no sign yet of them being shown in any of the Parisian film emporiums. The reason for this is that the owners of the French rights have set so high a price on their wares that Paris exhibitors, unaccustomed to paying high rates, are hanging back.

The French public, moreover, reveals no very keen desire to see the details of their idol's defeat. Even sporting writers do not seem especially eager to look the pictures over.

With the municipal regatta scheduled for the Mississippi River on Aug. 14.

The most noticeable feature about park athletics this season has been the tremendous increase in the baseball attendance. Last season's records show that more than 1,000,000 people attended the diamond contests; but if the 1921 attendance continues, this mark will be bettered by about 20 per cent. There are now 150 teams playing in the 19 leagues.

WRAY'S COLUMN

A Test for Bob Martin.

THE first of a series of elimination battles between American heavyweights, with a match against Georges Carpentier as an objective, will be fought at the Boxing Drome, New York City, tonight. The principals are Bob Martin, interallied champion, and Frank Moran, the aging Pittsburgh veteran, owner of boundless courage and endurance and a matchless but telegraphic wallop. The bout will be, under the New York commission rules, a 12-round affair to a decision.

While the match may be called an elimination affair, it is far more probable that should Martin knock out Moran he then and there, without further parley, would be given a match with Carpentier. Doubtless Georges will be at ringside, tonight, to note the wares that both Martin and Moran possess for status use in case of a fight with either.

Martin is preferred over other light-heavyweights as a match for Carpentier because he saw service abroad and has fine record as a pugilist as well. The frigid reception accorded the world's champion would be absent if Martin entered the ring with Carpentier, for he is more popular than Dempsey, though not a great fighter. This Martin is quite a boy. In the two years that he has been campaigning as a fighter he has had something like 47 fights and has knocked out 41 opponents.

Martin Gradually Improves.

MARTIN has faced all the secondary fighters and is now working up to the title class. He is on his way up to the top and if the match with Carpentier falls he expects to face Fulton, Brennan and others. Martin proved his right to top recognition in his last big fight, that with Bill Brennan, to whom he gave a lacer for eight rounds and then tired out, losing the decision in the later rounds.

Moran is a slow, hard-hitting slugger. If he lands squarely he might flatten any foe. He reduced Beckett to unconsciousness in two rounds. The worst thing against him is a three-round knockout at the hands of Fred Fulton. Subsequently he fought Fulton eight rounds in a no-decision contest. The meeting of Moran with Martin will serve to show how far the one has advanced or how far the other has slipped.

Limit Will Handicap Georges.

MANAGER DESCAMPS, in answer to a question what weight he would demand of Carpentier's next opponent, is reported to have told Rickard "175 pounds."

If Georges is to defend his light-heavyweight championship at this figure he will have matters somewhat on his own way, in this country. It is doubtful if, aside from Harry Greb or Tom Gibbons—possibly not even the latter—there are United States heavyweights of class able to do the weight. The middleweights, however, all seem willing to take on Georges.

Brennan, Martin, Moran, Willis, Fulton, etc., are all far too heavy for Georges, and could not squeeze down to the limit set. In fact, the men named are all true heavyweights, and out of Georges' weight class. Carpentier is dangerous for any of them, and, if his body can take the American style of "close in" punishment, that overhand right of his will hang crepe on some.

POLICEMAN WHO WOULD FIGHT DEMPSEY ROUTED MOB WITH BARE FISTS

NEW YORK, July 12.—A Washington policeman was in New York today seriously considering his chances of winning the world's heavyweight boxing championship from Jack Dempsey. He is Henry Darnelle, 21 years old, the undefeated heavyweight champion of the United States navy destroyer fleet during the war, but otherwise unknown in boxing circles. Darnelle was pronounced by physicians to be in perfect condition physically, and his followers believe that his build, which is very similar to the present champion's, together with his natural, although undeveloped fighting ability, have placed him among those who can properly aspire to defeat Dempsey. The Washington policeman won fame on the Fourth of July, when he quelled a disturbance in Capitol Heights. With his bare fists he knocked down every man in a mob that rushed at him, and Washington newspapers number the casualties at about 100.

BOONE OF NEW ORLEANS LEADS SOUTHERN BATTERS

CHICAGO, July 9.—M. Boone of New Orleans has increased his lead among the batters of the Southern Association, according to averages released today, and which include games of last Tuesday. He is hitting .352, while Traynor of Birmingham, runnerup a week ago, struck a slump and dropped to sixth place. Don Brown of Little Rock moved up into the second position with an average .345, and McMillan of Memphis, who has been gaining the past few weeks, went into third place with .330. Polly McLarry is leading in total bases, his 106 hits giving him a total of 179 bases, which include 23 doubles, 13 triples and eight homers.

Racing Near Chicago.

HAMMOND, Ind., July 12.—A real estate deal closed here yesterday is reported to be the first step in the resumption of horse racing for Chicago, minus the gambling. The land involved, 80 acres, is two miles across the State line in Illinois. It is stated that a $2,000,000 plant is projected by several Chicago men.

Carpentier Will Box In U. S. Next October; Opponent Not Chosen

NEW YORK, July 12.

GEORGES CARPENTIER is going to fight again for Tex Rickard. Descamps yesterday signed Carpentier to box a suitable opponent for the light-heavyweight championship of the world, the second week of October.

The bout will take place either at the big pine place in Jersey City or in Madison Square Garden. Carpentier's opponent will be selected by Rickard and probably will be one of the three men—Tom Gibbons, Harry Greb or Johnny Wilson, the world's middleweight champion, who has repeatedly challenged Carpentier.

Bob Martin, the A. E. F. champion, if he can scout by that tough old bird, Frank Moran at the Boxing Drome, tonight, also will be considered. It took Descamps and Rickard, with the assistance of Capt. Mallett, just half an hour to come to terms. Descamps and the great French fighter will leave for France on Thursday, sailing on La Saviole. Rickard would not say yesterday just what amount of money he had promised Carpentier.

TUBERCULOSIS SOCIETY BASEBALL DOUBLE BILL ANNOUNCED FOR JULY 27

A silver trophy will be presented to the winner of the service championship baseball game to be played by the army and navy in St. Louis July 27, under the auspices of the Tuberculosis Society of St. Louis. The cup stands 20 inches high and is to be decorated with a handsome relief entitled "Sliding Home." This will be the fourth annual service.

ice championship match played in St. Louis. Jefferson Barracks has sent a team to represent the doughboys every year, and three times the Great Lakes Naval Training Station has furnished the "gob" team. The fourth navy team came from the anti-submarine flotilla cruising in Southern waters. Each year the sailors have carried off the victory. The army-navy contest will be played preliminary to the game between the Cardinals and Philadelphia.

Word came to the Tuberculosis Society last week that the Cardinals again will present a Ford car to be given away with one of the souvenir score cards, and it also is announced that about 25,000 other articles of all sizes, shapes, kind and description and every imaginable value, from a few cents up to several hundred dollars, will be given away at the game to purchasers of souvenir score cards.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Nation's Privilege.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SOME days ago my attention was attracted by an article in your People's Column entitled "A Message From Motherly." Being from my old home town, I naturally glanced at the signature and found it was from my old friend, E. O. Doyle. The article appeared to be a protest against the position taken by the Post-Dispatch on the League of Nations and assumed that the majority given Harding at the last election settled that question for all time to come.

Nations, like individuals, I think, are privileged at least once in a generation to make fools of themselves. A more opportune time than the last election could not have presented itself for an exhibition of that kind. We had just emerged from the big war, everybody and everything was up in the air. But now that we are settling back into the old routine, with the only remedy ever suggested for the prevention of war defeated, exportation of American products falling off in leaps and bounds, unemployment on the increase, and the agricultural classes approaching bankruptcy, is it possible that Bro. Doyle still clings to the idea that we did the wise thing?

If no set of statesmen now living could have averted the calamity that has overtaken us we have certainly stumbled into a very stupid age. The man on the street and among the hedges and byways has long since discovered the mistake made last fall. Pinch yourself, Bro. Doyle, and wake up from your Van Winkle slumber.

Editorial Psychology.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

NEVER having been an editor, we are not expected to be able toathom editorial psychology.

Notwithstanding the rejection of the League of Nations at the November election by a majority of over 7,000,000 voters, and it is very probable that the vote were to be taken today that the majority against would be nearer 17,000,000, we cannot understand the psychology of your daily presentation of the League of Nations matter.

We agree that the editor has the right of his opinion. On the other hand the newspaper readers have some rights. In this instance you should at least give us part of the time. That is, give us your usual virile editorial page relative to the live topics of the day at least a part of the time.

A. O. ARCHER.

Keeping It in the Family.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I READ, with disgust, of the appointment of Mr. McKelvey's daughter to the position of stenographer-clerk at a salary of $150 per month. Mr. McKelvey believes in keeping it all in the family circle, regardless if he is injuring someone else.

There are plenty of young ladies working in the city hall who are capable of performing the duties of this position without Mr. McKelvey bringing his daughter, who has had no previous experience, to fill a position that could and should have been filled by promotion. What incentive have we who are working for the city? None whatever. We start at what the Efficiency Board says is the beginning salary, after passing their test. When you register at their office they tell you that you must file for the entrance position, namely, the first grade, and that you will be promoted from one grade to another. However, the promotion is up to the appointing officer. Mr. McKelvey's daughter comes in at $150 per month. What grade is it I do not know, but I know it is not the grade at which I started, for my salary is anything but $150 per month.

What is the use of having tests if a man the type of Mr. McKelvey can pull over a raw deal like that one? Is it any wonder that the people do not place any confidence in the civil service system?

The people of St. Louis ought to demand that those who take the civil service examinations be given a fair trial.

ONE OF THE CITY HALL GIRLS.

Appreciation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

PERMIT me to thank you on behalf of the North and South Side Catholic Orphans' Picnic Association for the valuable space given in your paper in the Organizing our picnic held at St. Mary's and St. Joseph's Orphanages on Monday, July 4. Let me assure you that your kindness was greatly appreciated. Both picnics were a pronounced success.

E. F. JUDGE, Secretary.

Defends Bonus.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WITH reference to the article on "The Bonus Bill" that appeared in the Post-Dispatch of the 7th, wish to say I do not think it is just to our boys to drop their bonus. They ought to be paid for sacrificing everything to help win this war. Let the men who remained at home and made money pay this bonus. Our soldiers did enough without paying for their own bonus. This State ought to be rich enough to show more consideration to their soldiers. Give them a square deal.

A READER.

THE LEGISLATURE'S DUTY.

Gov. Hyde's message on road legislation goes straight to the point. It is comprehensive, forceful, convincing. It does not leave a peg upon which to hang a dirt-road, pork-barrel measure.

The Governor covers the whole subject. He outlines a simple but complete program for road legislation. These are the salient points:

1. The question of roads is of "outstanding importance" before the special session. The administration must not fail to carry out the will of the voters in passing the $60,000,000 bond amendment.
2. The Legislature has a mandate from the State. The roads are to be built with State money; it is therefore a State problem. The counties are important, but it is not a question of what the counties want, but what the State as a whole needs.
3. The road bond amendment specifically states its purpose. The mandate specifically authorizes the creation of a debt of $60,000,000 for the purpose of constructing hard-surface, public roads in each county.
4. The roads plan must embody a system of roads. No hodge-podge of disconnected and isolated roads would suffice. A DIVISION OF THE FUND ON ANY BASIS IS IMPOSSIBLE.
5. "To accomplish the mandate of the people some perpetuating and central head must be intrusted with the details of construction and administration." In order to work out and build a unified State system reaching each county there must be a directing head.
6. The Legislature should designate a State system of roads and create a commission to improve them, leaving all details to the commission.
7. The obligation of the popular mandate for hard-surface roads is paramount, and the whole duty of the Legislature is to carry out the people's will.

Gov. Hyde might have added that any other program except that outlined by him would forfeit for the State about $35,000,000 of Federal money available for expenditure on a State system of highways, with secondary county roads. The Legislature, by failing to do its duty and dividing up road money for county spoils and dirt roads would not only cheat the people of the State out of the benefits of their bond money, but would deprive them of $35,000,000 additional money offered by the Federal Government for good roads.

The pork-barrel, mud-roads bill, providing for a county division and a hodge-podge of disconnected roads—framed by the House committee—assumes its full measure of disgraceful absurdity in the light of the Governor's message. It is shot so full of holes that it will not mislead the most ignorant constituent of the dirt-roads brigade.

The Legislature cannot afford to defy the mandate of the people. It cannot afford to cheat the people of Missouri. It must meet the standard of roads legislation embodied in the bond amendment and clearly outlined and emphasized by the Governor's message.

The Legislature, and with it the Republican administration, will be judged by that standard.

Is there no end to profiteering? Chinese wives are being sold for $1 each.

OUR BLUNDERING SUN.

Why the immodesty of the current summer's heat? Prof. T. J. J. See, Government astronomer at the Mare Island Navy Yard, has an answer. According to his version, man's ardent friend, the sun, far from intending any overtaxation of our heat endurance, is but making a clumsy effort to attune himself with the spirit of the times. Like the planet earth, he has strayed from the path of normalcy, a deviation which, in our post-war period, consists either in the doing of the right thing at the wrong time or the wrong thing at the right time.

It seems that our sun, every century, burns up a tonnage of meteoric fuel just about equal to the moon. In the carrying out of this program he gets in his winter coal every 10 or 11 years. Naturally, this stocking process makes it hot for those of us who happen to be loitering in the vicinity of ninety millions of miles. Now, this would be no hardship, but a great convenience, as far as we are concerned, if done at the right time—at a time when the surplus heat could be deducted from our fuel bill. Also at a time when our fruit trees would not be vamped into bloom and then spurned by the villainous Arctic blasts of April.

But we cannot blame our sun, than which, we are sure, there is no finer or more justly celebrated sun on the map of the firmament. Like our statesmen, our profiteers, our reformers and our evening rainstorms in Forest Park, he has been trying to do the right thing, but at the wrong time.

THE NEED OF GOOD MUSIC.

The financial success of the present season of municipal opera, which is now said to be assured, is better news than might have been hoped for, considering the adversities with which the project has had to contend. The first of these misfortunes was capricious June weather. Added to this was the insurance gamble against rain, which turned out all to the good of the insurers, despite the fact that several performances were ruined by the elements.

The splendid turnout of the crowds proclaims a popular craving for music which must be far from satisfied by present offerings. One opportunity to satisfy this craving, and an opportunity which would reach many people who do not often attend the opera, is that of free band concerts in the parks. The appropriation for this purpose has dwindled from $17,000 a few years ago to $7000. In Tower Grove Park the concerts have been suspended for the entire season.

Good music in the parks combines enjoyment, recreation and instruction. It cultivates the public taste.

Getting a Republican Congress off the tariff trail is like trying to call off a hound when it is chasing a rabbit.

LENINE'S REAL REVOLUTION.

Premier Lenine continues to buttress his strength by striking his constituents and the rest of the world in the face. His real revolution is not of government. Sovietism is a name borrowed from an historic plan of popular organization peculiar to Russia. Setting up a dictatorship under another name, with the promise of communism, is all Lenine has done for political revolution in Russia.

His real revolution is one of method. The politician of the nonrevolutionized world has grown into a pose from which he offers to fulfill every man's wishes, regardless of whether or not the wishes of any two happen to be in direct opposition. He argues with nobody but his rivals for power. He concedes everything in principle. Especially does he fling afar the oratorical banner of liberty and democracy. Sometimes he means it and very often he doesn't, but he never misses saying that he does.

Lenine's quarrel with this method is both shocking and amusing. "We cannot promise anybody any liberty or any democracy," he says, "because under the flag of pure democracy at present are grouping all the counter-revolutionary elements." Liberty and democracy, he declares, are only words used as a disguise for politics.

In international relations the bolshevik Premier is equally audacious. While he lets his agents work to secure favorable treatment from foreign Governments, he himself indulges in no diplomatic cant about amity and agreement, but serves notice to one and all in words which, put into direct quotation, would read: "While we can use you we shall be your friends; meanwhile we shall quietly undermine you with our propaganda and prepare you for destruction at the hands of your own proletariat."

Such a policy, of course, involves the Lenine government in endless contradictions, but consistency is no part of the Lenine idea of revolution. It is to get away from such hoary restrictions, according to this view, that men revolt.

As a matter of psychology he is right. There is a subtle appeal in flouting the verities of the ages. There is an appeal to any honest man in getting away from the hypocrisy and pretense of politics.

But with due acknowledgment of the wit and pungency of Lenine's method, its substance is superficial, and its endurance must be ephemeral. Playing with the eternal verities cannot extinguish their truth. People do want liberty and democracy, even though the words are a favorite legend on the banner of reaction.

Lenine is intellectually refreshing. He is fascinating to a class of simple people who are relieved of their bewilderment when they are being kicked around. And he is satisfying, of course, to the vast army to whom he deifies his dictatorship power. But how can any such state of affairs indefinitely endure or become a menace to any nation honestly devoted to the aspirations of democracy?

One of the principal duties of a President seems to be to say "giddap" to Congress.

Written for the POST-DISPATCH
By Clark McDooms

SOCRATES AND HIS PUPILS.

GLAUCON: I suppose you read what Prof. Einstein thinks of us, Socrates?

SOCRATES: I did, indeed. It is in some respects quite true, I think.

GLAUCON: At any rate, it is interesting. SOCRATES: Truly. It is not difficult to understand Prof. Einstein's opinion of us. He says we are a silly lot, that we all run after the same thing—no matter what, so long as it is in vogue—and that it would be absurd to compare science here with science in Europe.

POLEMARCHUS: Would I be setting a good example by not going out to see Babe Ruth?

SOCRATES: That is not exactly what the professor means; but it is true of us that one must do what he sees the others doing; that we all read the same book and see the same play; and that even a laundry could see a few among us unless it had done something spectacular to attract attention.

THRASYMACHUS: Aren't people like that in every country?

SOCRATES: It seems they are not. Thus, Prof. Einstein's own country is Switzerland. Evidently Switzerland is not very much like our own country or it could not have produced the Einstein theory.

GLAUCON: That is the professor's point, I believe.

SOCRATES: The fault in us, and the thing that a visitor of Prof. Einstein's observation could not fail to detect, is that we are a people without any objective in life. We have tried to make the acquisition of wealth our reason for living, but the acquisition of wealth cannot be made the reason for living.

GLAUCON: Certainly not.

SOCRATES: The reasons for living are purely immaterial. Thus Mr. Rockefeller, the richest man in the world, aged 82, is not really the most successful American. He is only the most successful one of us judged by the only standard we have.

POLEMARCHUS: That is, a material standard.

SOCRATES: Exactly. Prof. Einstein cares nothing about our wealth. It cannot buy for any of us what he has, nor can it contribute to civilization what he is contributing.

GLAUCON: That is, mind makes the world and not matter.

SOCRATES: Precisely. That spiritual and immaterial side of ourselves in which Prof. Einstein is interested has never been developed. He cared nothing for our great cities, our buildings 150 feet high, our incredible abundance of automobiles, the fine clothes worn by our women, or the fat captains of industry traveling around in special cars. He looked for culture, and he found we had none.

THRASYMACHUS: Did he go to Boston?

SOCRATES: I am afraid he didn't. The truth is that we are not as badly off as Prof. Einstein thinks, but spiritually we are very feeble. We have somewhat of things of more left and less substance than money, but the professor was not over here long enough to discover them. He found the United States only a howling wilderness peopled by barbarians driving big automobiles and covered with diamonds. He had not long to stay, and therefore could not know that we have a brave body of educators hiding out from the rich trustees of our educational institutions; that we have resolute artists trying to keep body and soul together while capitalism goes over the bumps and cannot therefore buy pictures; and that we have an untried group of prophets every day telling the people of the United States that money cannot be made the objective in life. There is, too, Mr. Edison, who is always likely to make some contribution to civilization and who doesn't know it if he has any money or not.

GLAUCON: We need to orient ourselves.

SOCRATES: We do. While we may not relish having a European come over here and say the things about us that Prof. Einstein said, we must believe that criticism as honest as that must do us good. A people going as we are going have to be headed off by somebody.

POLEMARCHUS: It would seem to me that just now, when there isn't any money, would be a good time to talk about other and better values in life.

SOCRATES: So it would. Maybe Prof. Einstein will set us at it. Meanwhile, let us buy a paper and see if Mr. Harding has stayed smoked out on the disarmament issue.

One of our readers says he has solved the rest problem by sleeping in one of the holes on Cabanne avenue west of Union. He reports it as cool as a cave.

Summertime up north must be real summertime. The temperature at Green Bay, Wis., on yesterday was 100, and at Minneapolis it was 98.

What a great day we had yesterday, when Mr. Harding came out for disarmament and Gov. Hyde took a stand for hard roads!

One of the comedies about armament is that you have to hurry to get a battleship built in time to junk it.

MY MERAMEC.

NATURE enthralled sits at your door
And rules the beauty of your shore,
Your waters breathing virgin lore
Of redman's loves and feuds of yore;
Dear stream, I love you ever more,
Meramec, my Meramec.

Pine-scented breezes everywhere,
The breath of campfire in the air,
Wafting away the lingering care,
Fanning our smoldering souls to flare,
Stirring our hearts to brave and dare,
Meramec, my Meramec.

The Bob-white calling tenderly,
The squirrel frisking playfully,
The robin's gleeful ecstasy,
The songbird's tuneful melody,
Sounds sweet and clear from every tree,
Meramec, my Meramec.

When silvery moonbeams shining bright
Softly upon your waters light,
The fireflies flicker into sight,
The locusts hum in rhythmic might;
I love the mystery of your night,
Meramec, my Meramec.

I love to launch my light canoe
In merry chase to follow you,
Your rapids swiftly gliding through
In channels shifting ever new,
Your fleeting current I pursue,
Meramec, my Meramec.

When life's spent lamp is burning low
And I hear Gabriel's trumpet blow,
'Twould stay regret did I but know
The Happy Hunting Grounds were so
Like your fair Paradise below,
Meramec, my Meramec.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

OUR FOREIGN LOANS.

From the New York Herald.

THE power which Secretary Mellon was to bring from Congress in the matter of our $100,000,000 of war loans to foreign Governments is to separate the sheep from the goats to treat the sheep as sheep and the goats as goats. He ought to have it at once. Some of these debates and by far the greater part of them are as good as gold, though not so immediately negotiable. Some of them are not worth powder to blow them. Secretary Mellon, business man of sound judgment, a banker's large responsibility, will make an arrangement for the refunding and repayment of Great Britain's borrowings from our Treasury such as solvent, rich and powerful banking institutions might make with another. He will do a thing with France and Italy, giving due consideration to their circumstances and prospects, neither Secretary Mellon nor Congress can be out of an insolvent and poverty-stricken France what is not now there to get and what is not going to be there in the future to get. He will give Secretary Mellon all the power he can have to clean up the foreign loan muddle as he best may be able to clean it up.

EMPLOYMENT OF WOMEN.

From the Brattleboro (Vt.) Reformer.

WHENEVER a shortage of work appears and give the jobs to the men who need them. Income tax returns indicate that the need is all on the male side. When the tax returns of the State of New York were made up for 1919 it was found that 107,493 single women had answered as heads of families with other dependents upon them for support. In addition to these single wage earners there were thousands of married women with dependents. They are the figures for but one State. These women are not working for fun or for a little pin money. They are working because, in their cases, the old-fashioned notion that man is the wage earner proved an economic fallacy. The industrial revolution cannot be solved by depriving these women of the jobs they need. Instead, there must be such a revival of business as will make jobs for everybody.

ENGLAND'S TAX BURDEN.

From Lord Rothermere's "Solvency or Downfall."

LAVISH expenditure, coupled with the swift depreciation in the value of money, set in the extravagance tendencies, which for a time were shared by the entire nation. The result was that we had found wealth rather than lost it. At the time of the armistice, the world, and most of the people, as well as the Government. Even today we may contemplate the continent of Europe the little new nations swamped with paper money, bankrupt in commerce and destitute of lucrative trade, yet maintaining armed forces on a scale which they could possibly afford, cherishing territorial ambitions which must plunge them into ruin, and planning military enterprises which savor of madness.

The great war left the world in a financially poorer, and its consequences have been the channels of international trade, and the completely derelict the international exchange, and more spacious life. More nations have been destroyed by excessive taxation than have been saved by it.

There is no modern parallel to the appalling taxation under which out of existence is now being steadily crushed the British Empire.

It is absolutely certain that even a people so docile as our own will only accept the menace of war, a menace which they have not worked for nearly half of every day in order to pay the cost of criminally wasteful public administration.

Men's Rights

—By—
Neal R. O'Hara

An average man is a guy that gives up smoking to get his wife some new lace curtains. Then he gives up smoking because she's not sm. True, man's place today is in the home, but the trouble is that he's second place.

The girls trill about equal rights. We let 'em vote and now they want to sit down in the street car. Every morning a guy gives his seat to some wren. Every night the same thing again. Only one place a guy can sit without giving up his seat to a frail. That's in the bath tub. But that only happens once a week.

No one ever hollars for men's rights because there aren't any. Dames used to go through a husband's pockets and frisk all his silver change. When they go through his pockets now they don't even leave his cigarettes. Old fashioned wife never touched hubby's pants except when they needed patches. Times have shifted a lot since then. Love, honor and obey today doesn't include a patchwork clause. Only thing a wren patches in her husband's pants today are the letters she finds in 'em all torn up.

Time wives are rare. You've heard of the tired business man. Well, it's his wife that makes him tired. She comes up to the office eight times a day and never gets the wrong number. They take your name when they marry you so they can start some charge accounts. Spend all your cash on lingerie and furs and then look at you and say, "You don't dress like Wallie."

Woman's idea of a good husband is a guy that hates to read. Teddies before marriage she purrs about a cottage by the sea. After the wedding bells ring off, it develops that cottage by the sea is for the summer season only. Got to have a flat for the rest of the year, close to the delisessen district.

When Paris tells 'em to wear little new, married fraills all follow the delisessen. Then knock their husbands buying them so few clothes. Dames won't even give husband credit for the little. When Paris states she all have to be deep, wife brags she furnishes the deep neck. All hubby has is the frock that goes round it.

Powder sex doesn't realize you can drive a man, but you can't ride him. Why married men are fond of train riding, especially to points West on one-way tickets. Statistics show that out of 50,000 that have disappeared only two guys didn't have wives hitchhiking over at the delisessen. After all, it's a married man's excuse.

All women are alike when married. Give 'em an inch and they want a half. And then they want you back the inch to use as a sample. Buy your wife a soda and she wants a straw to go with it. Buy her a suit and she wants a straw hat to go with that. Frail sex is not as highly improvable. It's impossible. And man's rights? Try and get 'em!

When Baby Cries

It is not well to pick up a child whenever it cries. If it is not feeding time and the cry is not that of pain he should not be taken up. As a rule, the habit of crying to be held. If the child is a young infant turning on the other side will often quiet him or a drink of water may prove effective. An older child can usually be pacified by a change of occupation. If all the possibilities of the toys have been exhausted give him a few small kitchen utensils such as pans and spoons. By simply changing the baby's interest is awakened and the child will not cry. There are women who never hold their children. But they change their positions and attitudes of amusement. For instance, they are kept in the "yard" until they become restless, then they are transferred to the high chair. Later on they are put into the perambulator and if there is a baby carriage, a "who-ee-fly" etc., to change again, a woman can usually attend to all her household duties without having her nerves on edge on account of a crying baby.

Economy in Cooking Fruits

It requires very little more fuel to cook five pounds of prunes, dried apples or apricots than it does to cook one pound, and very little more time. What cannot be used at once may be canned for future use. Dried fruits may also be used in puddings, breads and cookies. To make marmalades, butter and jams.

Mrs. T. H. Baca, recently commissioned Adjutant-General, with the rank of Major, in the New Mexico National Guard, is believed to be the first woman National Guard officer in the country.

NEW INVENTIONS

A VIRGINIAN is the inventor of a new electric light for use in darning stockings into which an electric light can be inserted to illuminate it. A new socket attachment for use with electric irons shows whether the current is turned on or off.

Heated electrically, a device has been invented in France that enables any man to press and crease his trousers. A leather lining has been added to prevent rugs slipping on floors.

The Judge's Fall

By Will Payne

A Short Story in Three Daily Installments.

(Copyright, 1931.)

SECOND INSTALLMENT.

"Of course, if it had been the same man I should have heard of it," said the judge. "I couldn't sit in judgment on a man whose life was at stake if that man had risked his life to save my daughter. I should have transferred the case to another judge. But it wasn't the same man, there seemed nothing more to say. The two men are extraordinarily alike. I've thought since that very likely they are brothers."

The judge looked inquiringly at the inspector, who replied, "I've never heard of Midden having a brother. He may have one, but I doubt it."

"A striking resemblance, at any rate," the judge commented, and went on with his statement. "As it wasn't the same man, there was no reason why I shouldn't hear the case, and I have been hearing it."

"Somewhere," the judge repeated, "there's a man just like him who heard a girl's faint cry for help and struck out into the fog. It took him a long time to get to the shore line in one minute, and if he lost his sense of direction it would be just touch and go whether he ever got back—to say nothing of being encumbered with a helpless girl. It took courage to do that, and the girl was my daughter. I can't get it out of my mind."

Cassidy plucked at his grizzled mustache, looking thoughtful and sympathetic.

"It's true," Judge Wolcott went on, "that I never tried another case as I've tried this one—hanging on every face and gesture. You see, I take off my glasses and the courtroom immediately blurs as though a fog had settled down in it. I can't get that out of my head, either—a poor devil there below me swimming in that fog without any shore line."

The judge frowned then and shook his head as he passed judgment on himself, with severity.

"You know as well as I do that that's not judicial. It's not what's expected of me or required of me. I'm required to sit back with a perfectly neutral mind—a perfectly detached umpire, to see if neither side infringes the rules, and then to let prosecution and defense fight it out between themselves. I don't say that any court of review can find any prejudice in my rulings. I'll defy any appellate court to do it. But it's true my mind hasn't been judicial."

The judge mused a moment and in a further perplexity exclaimed, "I don't know why Midden got Simon Crews to defend him. Crews always struck me as something of a blockhead—stubborn, hide-bound sort of a chap. But again, that none of my business. If a defendant chooses a lawyer who doesn't hand built 20 years before, on the other end of the lot, facing Kress street. You can go into the cottage by the front door from Kress street, or from the back door you can step into the back door of the lower floor of the flat building."

"I don't know why or how Midden got Crews," said the inspector, looking rather embarrassed. "Maybe we ought to have done more for Midden than we have—but I don't know exactly what more we could have done. . . . Probably you can see the boat this case puts us in—I mean the Police Department. Here's a policeman—been on the force 13 years—accused of murder; as dirty a murder as a man could be accused of, too. Of course, Midden had no right to be there, the evidence against him was about as conclusive as circumstantial evidence ever could be. Naturally that reflects on the whole department—put us in bad, especially as the State's Attorney's got it in for us just now anyway. Probably it's only natural under the circumstances for us to feel sort of sore at Midden and to want to wash our hands of him as much as we can. We couldn't very well lay ourselves open to the charge of trying to shield a murderer because he wore a police uniform."

"Certainly, I see all that," the judge returned heartily. "But the result is that Midden's been sort of shunted off to fend for himself—alone in the fog, we might say."

"Midden's been on the force 13 years," the inspector commented, "but he never—well, made much of an impression. There's nothing against him except that one time, three years ago, when he was accused of treating a prisoner brutally. He did beat the fellow up, and there may be some doubt as to whether it was strictly necessary. At the time I gave him the benefit of the doubt because his record was clean up to that point. I'd give him the benefit of the doubt now. But, of course, the prosecution is making the most of that charge of brutality against him. Except that, there's nothing in the record against him, but there's nothing in particular for him, either—just a slow-going, stick-in-the-mud, treadmill sort that made no particular impression on anyone."

It's true, though, that when I heard of this murder charge, and before I saw all the evidence, I believed him innocent. It didn't seem to me that Midden was a man who'd possibly do that—a rather dull, simple-minded man, as you say, but no more a man who'd kill a woman than I am. That was the way it struck me at first. But when I saw the evidence, it looked different."

Judge Wolcott got up, standing by the grate, like a man coming to the end of a matter, and said, "You know as well as I do that that's not judicial. It's not what's expected of me or required of me. I'm required to sit back with a perfectly neutral mind—a perfectly detached umpire, to see if neither side infringes the rules, and then to let prosecution and defense fight it out between themselves. I don't say that any court of review can find any prejudice in my rulings. I'll defy any appellate court to do it. But it's true my mind hasn't been judicial."

Uncommon Sense

By John Blake.

WATCH YOUR BRAKES. The approach to every dangerous turn of a State road is a sign which reads:

NO SLOW. The automobilist who has good sense and good brakes heeds the warning. He gets around the turn without anything happening to him. The speed maniac, or the man whose brakes are out of order, keeps right on. And we usually read of one or both in the accident columns of the newspapers, sooner or later.

The road we all must take is pretty well marked with warnings, although it takes experience to read some of them.

If we have the brake called will power, and keep it in trim, we have nothing to fear from the dangerous places.

If our judgment is bad and our will power likely to give way we never get where we are going, except in a very badly damaged condition.

There is no occasion for such great hurry that the warning signs must be overrun.

On the road to wealth, and especially the road to pleasure, the warnings are very abundant. Yet thousands and thousands of people run past them every day, with the usual disastrous results.

There is little enough time in the average life. We must all work rapidly if we are to get a good lifetime's work accomplished in the working years that are allotted us.

But we can always slow down at the risky corner, provided we keep our will power in condition, and use the judgment that ought to be a part of our makeup.

The "Too much danger" turn in the road is more dangerous than the "Too much work" corner, but it is well to slow up at both of them.

Then the "overindulgence" and "late hour" spots call for almost a halt.

Read all the signs, and observe them.

It is delightful to speed along the road and feel that we shall get where we are going in jig time.

But many speeders who do not heed the warnings, never get where they are going at all.

And when they are piled up in the hospital or the sanitarium or told by a grave-faced doctor to bid their families a last goodbye, they begin to see the sense in stringing these signs along the road and to wish they had kept their brakes in order.

to draw the original will. She didn't propose to pay another $10 to have another will drawn. She proposed, instead, to write out a new paragraph to be inserted in the original will, then have it all copied and executed in the same form as at first.

"When she gave Midden the will for safe-keeping he had put it in a big envelope and handed it to the desk sergeant at the Duquoin Street Police Station to be put in the station vault. So Midden got the original will from the desk sergeant and took it to the widow. On the second day following he left the police station as usual about half past four and walked around to the office of Dr. Ferguson on Lithcombe street.

The young woman—Dr. Ferguson's office attendant—says he seemed nervous. He waited a few minutes in the office to see the doctor, but as the doctor was still engaged, he left word that the doctor was not to call on Mrs. Cruger that day or again until he was sent for.

"For 10 days the widow had been bed-bound, or chair-bound, in her room and Dr. Ferguson had been calling on her daily between 5 and 6 o'clock, for he considered her condition rather critical. Midden says that Mrs. Cruger had been finding it fault with the doctor for coming so often—doing her no good and wasting her money. He says that when he stepped into the widow's room that morning to see how she was and whether anything was wanted, she felt no better and was more exasperated than ever at the doctor—instructing Midden positively to tell the doctor not to come to see her again until she sent for him.

"Now, Midden says he was disturbed about that, for he thought she ought to have the doctor. So he was rather disturbed about it, and he carried out her instructions or not, but finally, since she had positively ordered it, on leaving the station he did go around to the doctor's. But he felt disturbed about it, and if there was any nervousness in his manner the disturbance accounted for it. Midden says he left the doctor's office meaning to go directly to the cottage; but the time of a passing automobile blew out with a loud report and he just stood on the sidewalk watching the man change the tire. The man had some difficulty doing it. The operation was a general one, and he was nervous. Midden left the office he gets the widow's message, but when he starts out to make half a dozen neighborhood calls, winding up the day's work, the first place he goes to is the cottage on Duquoin street. He stumps upstairs, pushes open the widow's bedroom door and finds her dead in her chair with Timothy Midden on his knees examining the contents of a green iron box. The room is heated by a small cast-iron stove. Ferguson sees at once that the widow has been killed by a single smashing blow from the stove poker."

change in your diet for reduction you will experience what are known as "false hunger pangs," and I can give you a few suggestions that will find very helpful. The drinking of broths or any fluid at meal time is always forbidden on a reducing diet, but these hunger pangs are usually felt at 10 o'clock in the morning and 2 o'clock in the afternoon, you may take a cup of broth from which the fat has been skimmed, or if on account of being employed during the day this is not readily obtainable, the juice of an orange or a peeled apple, or better yet, a glass of water slowly sipped, will often tide you over till meal time without that feeling of faintness.

One of the chief causes of the disturbance of the digestive organs is due to improper mastication of the food. And the fat person must learn the importance of chewing every mouthful of food thoroughly before swallowing it.

Reducing the quantity of your food may make you feel very hungry, but the dinner pangs will not let this lead you into the temptation of committing the unpardonable insult to your body of bolting your food.

Follow this advice and you will not have to worry about your complexion.

one to loaf a bit. Midden was just off duty for the day. He had that doubt and affliction in his mind regarding the doctor's call. Say he was rather doubtful about it, but the widow for insisting that the doctor shouldn't call, and consequently a bit loath to see her—inclined to put that off a little. Being a rather full, slow-moving man, he just stands and mechanically watches a chauffeur change a tire, and although he must have stood there at least 20 minutes, he can give you a general description of the car, and on cross-examination, he admits that he didn't even look at the license plate. We've got to put it about that way if we take Midden's statement to be true.

"Dr. Ferguson is a man of very decided views and very decided character. There isn't the least doubt in his mind that Widow Cruger needs medical attention and that she is going to have it, whether she says so or not. Not long after Midden left the office he gets the widow's message, but when he starts out to make half a dozen neighborhood calls, winding up the day's work, the first place he goes to is the cottage on Duquoin street. He stumps upstairs, pushes open the widow's bedroom door and finds her dead in her chair with Timothy Midden on his knees examining the contents of a green iron box. The room is heated by a small cast-iron stove. Ferguson sees at once that the widow has been killed by a single smashing blow from the stove poker."

"If we take that to be true," he went on, "we've got to admit that it was awfully unlucky for Midden. It was a fine autumn day, inviting

THE BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

By Thornton W. Burgess

Bowser the Hound Slips Away.

BOWSER the Hound stood out back of Farmer Brown's barn looking across the Green Meadows toward the Old Pasture. It was early in the morning, very early. It was so early that Farmer Brown's boy was not yet up. But he would be very soon. Bowser knew that. His master was not the kind to oversleep when there was work to be done, and the haying was not yet finished.

"There are young Foxes over in the Old Pasture," thought Bowser. "I know it, because I smelled them when Master and I found the home of Reddy Fox the other day when we were over there after berries. Anyways, Master was after berries. I believe I could have dug those young Foxes out if it would have let me stay around there. He's funny. He certainly is queer. If those Foxes grow up they'll steal his chickens, or try to, and that will mean I'll have to be watching every minute. I believe I'll run over there and dig them out. Master won't know anything about it."

Bowser started across the Green Meadows for the Old Pasture, turning his head to look behind him now and then every few minutes. He wouldn't feel very comfortable until he was hidden by the bushes in the Old Pasture. He was soon there. He started straight for the place where he knew those young Foxes were. Half way there he rounded a turn in a crooked little cow path, and there right in front of him sat Reddy Fox. Bowser stopped short for just a second. He was as surprised as a dog ever lived. Reddy sat facing him and grinning. It was for all the world as if Reddy had been waiting for him.

Reddy had been waiting for him. The truth is, Reddy had seen Bowser out behind Farmer Brown's barn looking over toward the Old Pasture. He had guessed just what was in Bowser's mind. You know Reddy Fox has very keen wits. Of course, he knew that Farmer Brown's boy and Bowser had found that hidden home in the Old Pasture. He and Mrs. Reddy had been tempted to move that very night to another home. But Reddy had been quick to note how Farmer Brown's boy had pulled Bowser away, and he shrewdly guessed that there was nothing to fear from Farmer Brown's boy. So they had decided to stay.

But Reddy knew Bowser so well that he was sure Bowser would return the very first chance he got, and he had kept watch for that very thing. The instant Bowser started across the Green Meadows toward the Old Pasture, Reddy knew just what Bowser had in his mind. He grinned. Then he trotted back into the Old Pasture and sat down in the path he knew Bowser would take. As he sat, Reddy grinned again. "Once he sees me," he thought, "he'll forget all about that home of mine and those youngsters and by the time he does think of them again I'll be too tired to give them a second thought."

Reddy barked twice. There was an answering bark. He knew then that Mrs. Reddy was near and would be ready to do her part. Reddy grinned again. In his mind he had a plan, had Reddy Fox, and he was in a hurry to try it.

When Bowser rounded that turn in the path and came face to face with Reddy Fox he was as surprised as a dog as ever lived. He stopped short for a second. Then, with a roar, he sprang forward. Forgotten were those young Foxes. Here, right before him was Reddy Fox, who had so often fooled him, and whom he was bound he would get some day. Reddy turned and lightly sped away, and you may be sure it was in quite a different mood than that in which he lay his home and children. Bowser, with his nose to the ground, followed.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

ADVENTURE—By Proxy.

I love adventure. Bearding bears
In Unalaska's frozen passes,
Or threading through the lofty lairs
Where tigers lurk in dank morasses.
Combating walrus, hand to hand
Upon the floes above Point Barrow.
These things all make my breast expand
And thrill my being to the marrow.

I fain would know the perfect bliss
Enjoyed by the undaunted Laskar,
Who hears the anacondas hiss
Among the wilds of Madagascar.
To face the fierce rhinoceros,
The jaguar to tame and capture
Amid the tangled tropic moss
Must be the very height of rapture.

And ah! 'twould be a joyous lark
The apogee of the romantic—
To grapple with a raging shark
Beneath the rolling South Atlantic.
And as for giant octopi
Which grab a man and drag him under,
What man is there who does not sigh
To conquer one of them, I wonder.

I do not hunt these splendid brutes;
Ungratified is my ambition.
I haven't any hunting suits
Or proper guns and ammunition.
I let pot hunters fill their hides
With deadly shot, for they are paid to,
And fond of killing, and besides
I rather think I'd be afraid to.

"What in the world are you kicking about?" asked the red-headed landlady.
"When I took my room you told me there was a single hair mattress on the bed," said the thin boarder.
"So I did."
"Well, will you please come up to my room and show me the single hair?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Family Pride.

"No, mother," said the prospective bridegroom, "don't you mind if Doris' mother weeps at the wedding."
"I certainly shall mind. If that woman carries on as if her poor daughter was throwing herself away by marrying my son, I'll faint just to spite her. You see if I don't!"—Birmingham Age-Herald.
